AUTHORITIES FAVOR
BUREAU OF BREEDING

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Letters are coming in supporting the notion we should have a State Breeding Bureau. Such institutions are considered an essential part of the pastime of racing in countries on the continent. As is well known, too, the Breeding Bureau of The Jockey Club in New York has been doing good work since as long ago as 1906. The Jockey Club Bureau at present has the large number of twenty stallions.

Algernon Daingerfield, secretary, writes as follows in regard to the highly interesting subject of encouraging breeding of thoroughbreds and half-breds:

The Breeding Bureau of The Jockey Club is maintained at an average cost of $10,000 per annum. The Bureau places thoroughbred stallions in the agricultural counties of the state of New York with the general idea of improving the breed of light horses, believing that the thoroughbred horse cross with the colder strains produces a more active and better animal for saddle purposes, remounts for the United States Army, hunting and other pleasure uses.

Since its creation the Breeding Bureau has placed some 500 stallions in the state.

The horses are acquired by gift from members of The Jockey Club and other public spirited citizens, and in rare instances the stallions are purchased.

The editor of The Thoroughbred Record of Lexington, Kentucky, writes us that we are on the right track to stimulate interest in breeding by offering he Tanforan Futurity and is strongly in favor of a Breeding Bureau. Part of the interesting letter is as follows:

We sincerely hope the California Legislature allows you a fund for a Breeding Bureau. Nothing is of more importance in building a good foundation for the breeding structure, and you could most assuredly get donations of horses from time to time. WE THINK THE NEW YORK BREEDING BUREAU ABOUT SAVED THE DAY FOR NEW YORK WHEN THINGS WERE AT A LOW EBB.

No time should be lost in preparing for the establishment of the California State Breeding Bureau.

Theater Crammed
With Comedy

If it's song you are looking for, "Thanks a Million" has more than you count; if it's laughs, it's the season's top joy show; and if it's romance and stars, how about Dick Powell, Ann Dvorak, Fred Allen, Patsy Kelly, Paul Whiteman and his band with Ramona, Rubenoff and the Yacht Club Boys!

Crammed with entertainment, twentieth Century's spectacular new fun music film, "Thanks a Million," comes to the Daly City Theater for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday; February 9, 10 and 11.

It has a frivolous plot, woven about the wildest adventures of a troupe making one night stops under the masterful misguidance of comedian Fred Allen.

Dick Powell is the company's songster, and Ann Dvorak its leading dancer, and as you might guess they're wild about each other.

In some fantastic manner, Allen manages to get the troupe entangled with a bunch of wild-eyed politicians, and before they have extricated themselves, plenty happens.

The romance of Powell and Dvorak is threatened by the intrusion of Margaret Irving, Powell becomes temperamental and Allen becomes more nutty than ever.

Raymond Walburn, Benny Baker and Alan Dinehart are prominent in the supporting cast.

On the same program, "The Last Outpost," with Cary Grant and Gertrude Michael.

Tuesday and Saturday—Bank Nights.
Wednesday—Ladies Ovenserve.

REGULAR MEETMembers Dine And Discuss Problems Of Importance
To Industry

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harris, of the Menlo Park Recorder were hosts at the monthly dinner session of the San Mateo County Press Association, held at Bertrand's Oakwood Inn, on Middlefield Road on Monday evening of this week.

Following the dinner which was as usual with Bertrand's, the last word in the culinary art, those present engaged in social conversation for a short period before the business of the evening was taken up. The table was decorated with beautiful pink Japanese peach blossoms.

Many problems relative to the betterment of the newspapers and looking to better reader service were discussed. Among other subjects to come up was that of local printing, either city, county or commercial, going out of the county, it was pointed out that the work could all be handled locally and as cheaply in the county as outside.

A resolution was passed relative to political printing at the coming election with regard to having the work done at home. The resolution calls for the words "Printed in San Mateo County" to appear on all political printing and advertising.

W. E. Pitschke presided. In attendance were A. B. Cargill, Burlingame Advance; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harris, Menlo Park Recorder; Mrs. E. E. Bramble, South San Francisco Enterprise; George Dunn Sr., and George Dunn Jr., Half Moon Bay Review; Mr. and Mrs. Winklebleck, Redwood City Tribune; Mr. and Mrs. H. The trio were injured when Seragusa, as he neared the safety zone, turned to speak to the children in his car to ask them to remain quiet. When he turned around a moment later he found he had driven into the safety zone.

The three injured persons were treated at the Villa Sanatorium for cuts and bruises.

PEEVED PLUTOCRATS
ARE CERTAIN LOSERSBy J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

As long as the leaders in the opposition to a second term for President Roosevelt are in their present mood, that of anger at Rooseveltian liberal legislation, the probability increases that the President will walk home, as we say on the race track. Anger retards normal mental processes, as we learned long ago in primary school. It goes without saying that a lot of very forceful reasoning is the only thing that gives the opposition a ghost of a chance next November.

Not so long ago I read an observation by a keen analyst that tells the story in a few words of the well-nigh fiendish fight against the chief executive of the nation. It was to the effect that a political democracy seeks, as the President insists, to use its power for the promotion of the interests of the average man. That's anathema to the malefactors of great wealth. They want to keep right on getting all the plums, as in the past.

Again, there stands in the way of the achievement by the President of his purpose in bringing about decent living conditions for the people a body of vested interests which live by an obsolete social philosophy in which the rights of property are placed before the claims of the common welfare.

Here's the position of the President: Humanity first, with the property fetish put on the shelf for good.

One of the brightest men in the Roosevelt forces is Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and when the occasion is opportune he says a "mouthful," as the man on the street puts it. In a recent talk, McGrady pointed out that twelve representatives of the "kind-of Du Pont" attended the dinner of the so-called Liberty League to assail the President of the United States, under whose administration their profits have increased 1000 per cent.

As the assistant secretary of labor said, all the President is attempting to do is to accord equal rights and liberties to all citizens. The President is engaged in creating work for the people and the "money bags of Wall Street" don't like it a bit. Changes in the present inadequate economic system must be made, but the "money-bags" don't want any changes, even though those changes are being put through to save the country.

It has been well observed by a deep student of the muddled conditions in the country today that, if we face it clearly, looking beyond the tangle of our traditional usages, the question of what we shall do with our farms and our factories is not ultimately a question for lawyers or judges to settle; it is a question of economic and social policy, with the solution with the people and their representatives in legislative halls.

Livy tells us the decay of ancient Rome was due in the main to bending the knee to the golden calf. And we learned long ago that history repeats.

President Roosevelt is not the only one to make use of the brains of college professors. Henry Fisk Carlton, who wrote "Liberty at the Crossroads" for the national committee of the party opposed to the President, is an M. A. and an instructor at New York University.

TANFORAN TRACK IN SPRING MEET

Racing at the big San Bruno race track will start this year on March 7 and end on April 11. Racing will be staged five days a week and some attractive purses are promised.

There will be a ten thousand dollar added handicap in order to attract the better stables now racing at Santa Anita in Southern California.

It is stated that during the forthcoming meet there will be no purses less than $700 and some will run as high as $1000.

Top Row, Time Supply, Azucar, Ladysman and Riskulus will be numbered among the top notch horses that will be seen in action during this meet and, judging from the excellent manner in which the last race meet was conducted, the big San Bruno course should attract racing fans in still greater numbers this year.

Of Activities In Conserving Shore Lands

What the Planning and Recreation Commissions have been building for San Mateo County during the past few years, in their comprehensive and forward looking program of recreational development of our ocean beaches and other areas throughout the county, sponsored and supported by the Board of Supervisors and other administrative officials, is now being planned for the entire California coast, through a state wide organization now in process of formation, under the name of "California Beaches Association," a non-profit organization launched in Los Angeles in December, and steps are now being taken to open another office of the association in San Francisco.

The Coastside Civic Union has been requested to promote the movement for San Mateo County. Since the aims and objects of this association embrace those which San Mateo County has been so successfully striving for it is felt that this state wide movement is going to bring outside aid and assistance to our own program for development for our beaches. It is hoped to bring to the acquisition and development of our beaches for recreational uses, not only assistance from neighboring counties, but state and federal aid as well.

The first step being taken in this direction is an organized drive being made through all county Boards of Supervisors for federal funds in a considerable amount, for a comprehensive survey of the entire California coast line. One hundred thousand dollars is being asked of the federal government through resolutions now before Boards of Supervisors, one being before our own San Mateo Board for early consideration, as has al-

Busy Session

Wednesday evening of this week was the date of the regular meeting of the Daly City Merchants Association, and a large number of members were in attendance at the Daly City Hall.

The president, F. T. Mather, having resigned, owing to press of private business, after a service in that office of nearly three years, regrets were expressed at his retirement.

W. E. Pitschke, editor of The Daly City Record, who was serving as vice president, was elevated to the office of president.

Also owing to press of private business, A. P. Weld, efficient secretary and business agent, tendered his resignation. This was also accepted.

Alfred Boynton was elected to the latter post.

After other business matters had been disposed of the members and friends of the association repaired to the Little Italy Hall on Mission street opposite the Daly City Theater.

On arrival they were treated to a wonderful program of moving pictures put on by Ray Moran, vice president of the Northern California Baseball Managers Association. He was ably assisted by two young lads, who furnished wonderful accordion selections during the interims between reels.

Short talks were made by city officials and others prominent in civic and fraternal circles here.

The films depicted baseball players of the various semi-pro leagues of San Francisco and vicinity in action.

After the entertainment palatable refreshments were served by the efficient committee. Needless to say, these were enjoyed by all.

The next meeting of the association will be an open one, and some fine motion pictures and other entertainment will be furnished.

Miscellaneous Shower

Honors Bride To Be

Mrs. J. Eisenberg of Miriam street and daughter, Mrs. Rose Coleman of Hayes street, San Francisco, were hostesses, Saturday of last week, at a bridal miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Dorothy Katchinsky, at the El Portal cafe in San Francisco.

Miss Katchinsky is to become the bride of Mrs. Eisenberg's son, Mr. Melvin Eisenberg, the latter part of February.

About fifty guests attended the luncheon and the bride to be was showered with many lovely gifts.

Among recent silly stunts was that of Raymond Phelps, a crippled young rancher of Colorado Springs, who climbed Pike's Peak on his hands and knees to its 14,000-foot summit in 13 hours. But the temporary notoriety achieved may have been sufficient recompense for the patellar wear and tear involved in the laborious climb.

FIRE DAMAGES AUTO SUNDAY

The fire was soon under control. The car was damaged to a considerable extent.

WATER WORKS

On Friday, January 31, Mrs. Hahn and Mrs. Burns took their classes to the Daly City Water Works. Mr. Bodien explained everything to us. We never knew how much work it meant to have water where one can go to turn it on at the faucet any time one chooses. The water looked so clear and is known to be the best water in the state.

was instructed so to notify each applicant.

Resolution No. 535, with reference to completion of work of widening the Mission street highway, asking a hearing with the State Highway Commission, was read and adopted.

Resolution No. 536, purporting to rescind the vote of the council, taken on January 13, establishing a civil service ordinance for Daly City, which ordinance, it was claimed, was illegally adopted at that time, was read and adopted by the votes of four members of the council, Councilman Fahey declining to vote.

On call for a vote on the identical ordinance, with change of number and date of its adoption, which was read at this time, four members of the council voted in the affirmative, while Councilman Fahey cast his vote against its adoption. The ordinance as so changed was declared passed by the council.

This ordinance is printed in full on page two of this issue of The Record. Several other routine matters were disposed of, after which the council adjourned until its next regular meeting date, the second Monday evening in February.

The public in general is cordially invited to inspect his stock of used cars for quality and prices.

Pat King extends to his many friends and customers his sincere appreciation for making this expansion possible.

After spending a few days visiting Mrs. Bergin, whom he had not seen for the past twenty-five years, Father Shanahan left for Los Angeles, where he contemplates visiting the Hancock family of the Hancock Oil Company for several weeks before returning home.

A liquid has been developed for refinishing autos which is applied without polishing and which it is claimed will last from eight to twelve months.

Said board of review may make, or cause to be made, such investigation as it may deem necessary, and thereafter shall hold a public hearing, at which time it shall hear evidence for and against the party aggrieved. Hearings may be informally conducted and the rules of evidence need not apply. Written conclusions or findings of the board of review shall be rendered within ten days after the matter is submitted, and thereupon be certified to the City Council or official from whose order the appeal was taken.

Such findings and conclusions of the board of review may contain such recommendations as said board shall deem warranted. The City Council or the appointing officer may thereupon affirm, revoke, or modify the action taken as in the judgment of such Council or officer shall be deemed warranted. The decision and recommendations of the board of review and any action taken by the City Council or appointing officer shall be final and conclusive, and shall not be reviewable in any court.

A reduction in pay shall be deemed a demotion within the meaning of this ordinance, and such reduction is part of a general plan to reduce all salaries and wages as a part of an economy or general curtailment program.

SECTION 10. Abolishment of Position. Whenever in the judgment of the City Council it becomes necessary in the interest of economy or because the necessity for the position involved no longer exists the City Council may abolish any position or employment in the Classified Service and discharge the employee holding such position or employment. Should such position or employment or any position involving all or any of the same duties be reinstated or created within two years, the employee discharged shall be eligible to be appointed thereto in preference to any other qualified persons on the eligible list for such position.

SECTION 11. Improper Political Activity. No person holding a position under the Classified Service shall seek or accept nomination, nomination or appointment as an officer of a political club or organization, or take an active part in a county or municipal political campaign or serve as a member of a committee of such club or organization or circle, or seek signatures to any petition provided for by any law, or act as a worker at the polls, or distribute badges, pamphlets, dogtags, or handbills of any kind favoring or opposing any candidate for election, or for nomination to a public office, whether county or municipal; provided, however, that nothing in this ordinance shall be construed to prevent any such officer or employee from becoming or continuing to be a member of a political club or organization, or from attendance at a political meeting, or from enjoying entire freedom from all interference in casting his vote or from seeking or accepting election or appointment to public office.

Any willful violation thereof or violation through culpable negligence, shall be sufficient grounds to authorize the discharge of any officer or employee.

No person in the Classified Service, or seeking admission thereto, shall be employed, promoted, demoted or discharged, or in any way favored or discriminated against, because of political opinions or affiliations or because of race or religious belief.

SECTION 12. Solicitation of Contributions. No officer, agent, clerk, or employee, under the government of the city shall, directly or indirectly, solicit or receive, or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription, contribution or involuntary, for any political purpose whatever, from any one on the eligible lists or holding any position under the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 13. Penalty for Violation. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon a conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $300.00 or by imprisonment in the city jail for a period of not more than ninety days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SECTION 14. If any section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, the decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The City Council hereby declares that it it would have passed this ordinance, and each section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, subdivisions, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

SECTION 15. This ordinance shall be published once in the Daly City Record, a newspaper published weekly in said City of Daly City, California, and shall take effect and be in force at the expiration of thirty (30) days from and after its passage.

Introduced this 30th day of December, 1935.

Passed and adopted as an ordinance of the City of Daly City, California, at a regular meeting of the City Council of Daly City held the 3rd day of February, 1936, by the following vote, to-wit: Ayes, and in favor thereof, Councilmen: Selmi, Sundermann, Twiston, Smith.

Noes, Councilmen: Fahey.

Absent, Councilmen: H. H. SMITH.

Wheat More Deadly Than Dynamite as Ship Cargo

Wheat is one of the most dangerous cargoes carried by ocean freighters, because it may shift and cause a heavy list, or, when wet, generate a gas that, in the heat of the hold, is an explosive as deadly as dynamite.

Wheat has caused many ship wrecks, among them being that of the British steamer Antiope, which sank in mid-Atlantic in 1926.—Collier's.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Select Products, Inc., 4402 23rd St., Long Island City, N. Y.

New York City Still Has Its Indians and Farms

There are more people named Cohen in New York than any other name. In fact, there are 10,000 Cohens in the Bronx and Manhattan alone. The Kellys are forgotten and overlooked. Indians like to live in New York city. Seems to agree with them as the number is increasing. There are now 391 of them living there.

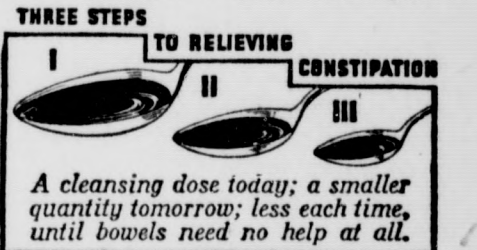

There are two buildings that each has five floors below the street level. There is one store for every 76 persons. There is one physician for every 545 persons. More people live in the Bronx than in Los Angeles. New York's quite a farming town. There are 365 families classed in the official census as being farming families. And 2,400 cows are milked every day in New York city.—Homer Croy in Esquire.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. Doctors use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

THE PUBLIC VOICE

Opinions Of Citizens For Which The Editor Gives No Sponsorship

The following communication to the editor is printed (the same as all signed contracts) as the opinion of the writer, and in no way reflects the opinion or sponsorship of the Record or its editor. Here is the communication:

Three times in as many months it has been necessary for the citizens to correct the Mayor and prevent him (by referendum) doing things they are opposed to.

First, there was the matter of useless improvements which would have doubled the taxes for a year and increased the city pay roll without any benefit to the city.

Secondly, there was an attempt to foist on the city a Bingo game, which would have continually filled the city with undesirable and had other detrimental effects; both were prevented by referendum petitions.

Now, in quick succession to the above, comes another political trick of the Mayor—an attempt to pass a Civil Service measure; not only without due consideration by the people, but before they are well aware of it. This, too, is being defeated by referendum.

Formerly, an official on being rebuked in this manner by the electors resigned his office, or at least behaved himself until the end of his term of office and the people had a chance to replace him with someone in sympathy with their ideas. Not so with Mr. Smith; he is a politician and knows his onions. This is shown by the manner in which he has fooled his political machine for so many years, and by the reward he is able to give them; that is the majority of them. A small minority has no reason to complain. However, to sum up, Mr. Smith has repeatedly shown himself in opposition to the wishes of the people and, seeing he has no intention to resign, should be removed from office next election.

Students of history know it has been age old custom of Dictators, when approaching the oblivion they have so well merited, to dig away down in their subconscious minds to find some legacy of trouble for their successors. It will be interesting to see what the Mayor does under like circumstances.

HEALTH OFFICER SAYS DRINK MILK

There is quite a bit of drinking done in San Mateo County, but unfortunately not enough of this milk, according to Dr. Charles C. Gans, county health director, and his milk inspector, J. J. Garland.

Just recently Garland, at the suggestion of his chief, has completed a milk survey, and the results were a little surprising to say the least. When you think of this county as one of home and good health, and a fine place to raise children, you naturally would think, according to Dr. Gans and his methods of deduction, dairies should do a thriving business. True, they do fairly well, but not nearly up to the average Dr. Gans says prevails in other places.

In his survey Garland finds, according to his report, that there are approximately 88,000 residents in the county, who consume 6731 gallons of milk daily. Figuring it down to the per capita, Garland reveals that only about a half pint is consumed per gallon per person per day.

According to Dr. Gans' figures, and he has compiled a lot of them for both the public and the army, a child should consume a quart of milk a day, and an adult needs at least a pint. Despite the fact that milk is considered a liquid he declares it contains actually 13 per cent of solids by weight, most of which are minerals, and highly beneficial in the building of bone, muscle and teeth.

The consumption of cream, when you compare its richness with milk, is somewhat better in the county with an average of 250 gallons a day, but part of this goes to bakeries where it is used in the making of things that appeal to the sweet tooth.

Dr. Gans urges that the county go on a milk spree, with greater use especially among children. The results, he assures us, will be not only pleasing in the building of health, but highly beneficial as well.

KEEP TO RIGHT FOR SAFETY SAKE

There's safety and security in that white line that runs down the middle of the highway. It is a veritable life line to motorists who will use it as they should.

Keep to the right and you will always be right. While this is true at all times, it is especially important as you approach a curve or the brow of a hill. Motorists coming from the opposite direction have a right to expect this of you.

Don't hold to the center of the road, even though the highway is deserted ahead. This practice typical of the "Sunday driver," slows up traffic and causes accidents.

Riding the line is hogging the road. Don't be a road hog.

THE IMPORTANCE OF FEBRUARY

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Pale is the February sky,
And brief the mid-day's sunny hours;
The wind swept forest seems to sigh
For the sweet time of leaves and flowers.

Yet has no month a prouder day
Not even when the summer broods
O'er meadows in their fresh array,
Or autumn tints the glowing woods.

For this chill season now again
Brings, in its annual round, the morn

When greatest of the sons of men
Our glorious Washington was born.
—By William Cullen Bryant.

February, the second month of our very new 1936, brings with it again birthdays of great men—George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Charles Lindbergh and Thomas Edison. Also, the ever anticipated St. Valentine's Day.

The name February came from a Roman word meaning "to purify." This translation seems fitting, for, during this period, does not nature undergo a chemicalization, to clear away the dross of winter in preparation for the lovely springtime?

This year February is favored with twenty-nine days, adding one more day to 1936 or 366 days. Bachelors, beware. This is Leap Year.

O little loveliest lady mine
What shall I send for your valentine?
Summer and flowers are far away;
Gloomy old Winter is king today;
Buds will not blow, and sun will not shine;

What shall I do for a valentine?
—Laura Elizabeth Richards.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

The aggregate loss for 1926, as an instance, was $561,980,751 or about $1,539,070 a day, as against $559,428,858 in 1925 and $549,062,124 in 1924.

For three consecutive years the sum of destruction exceeded a half billion dollars, whereas in 1913, the figure was $203,763,500, or $558,258 daily an amount hailed with alarm that year, but which now seems a moderate toll.

There are several reasons for the tremendous increase in losses. During the past ten years or so burnable values have been augmented to an unusual degree because of higher prices and much additional construction; the population has also increased resulting in greater congestion in all cities. Construction in the United States, on the average is not good from the standpoint of fire safety and consequently a fire once started usually gains rapid headway.

The Habit Factor on Fires

The great psychological factor in the situation is the temperamental carelessness of the American people and their tendency to "take a chance" with fire hazards of all kinds. In its compilation of recorded losses occurring in all parts of the United States, the Actuarial Bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters tabulates twenty-two classifications and among these the chief burden of responsibility as an originating hazard is borne by matches and smoking materials the debit against them amounting to about $30,000,000 a year.

It is obvious this is due almost entirely to personal habit and that the yearly toll could be rendered comparatively unimportant if the users of these items would be more careful.

CONQUEST OF FEAR IS SERMON TOPIC

"The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God." A proper conception of God gives us a proper conception of life. Fear is a very real thing but there is also a very real remedy.

Rev. John R. Stevenson will preach on this topic Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour. Special music.

Special music by the choir will assist in making the service attractive.

In the evening at 7:45 o'clock the sermon topic will be, "Do You Know Where You Are Going?"

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Spirit" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, February 9, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "The Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God" (I Cor. 2: 10). Other Bible citations will include: "For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Cor. 2: 11-12).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The suppositional antipode of divine infinite Spirit is the so-called human soul or spirit, in other words the five senses—the flesh that warreth against Spirit. These so called material senses must yield to the infinite Spirit, named God." (p. 200).

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

(By Rev. Miles Dawson)

A sermon, on the text from Genesis 1:28, "And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it," was recently preached by Cardinal Hayes of the Roman Catholic Church. In his message he fairly attacked movements which advocated "birth-control." He said, in effect, "This command was given by God to the first man, Adam."

In reply to this sermon, a group of advocates of this doctrine commented, saying, "The longest argument in the Cardinal's sermon . . . is found in the statement that birth control is contrary to the commandment of the Deity. That is true, if by Deity we mean the God that is found in ANCIENT MYTH AND LEGEND, (The Bible?) This is not true, however, if by Deity we mean the God who is revealed in the endless sweep of evolution and whose majestic message is being slowly translated by science into the accents of the human tongue." And herein, this group, religious, if you please, of "modernists" have tagged themselves as not only "deistic," but "non-theistic," as well.

CALVARY CHURCH SUNDY SERVICES

At the Calvary Baptist Church, 5724 Mission street, Pastor Miles Dawson will be in his pulpit for morning and evening services on Sunday. His 11 o'clock morning theme will be on "The Christian's Testimony," and the choir will sing. At the 7:45 evening service, he will speak on "The Four Points of Confession." The men of the church will conduct a devotional period at this service.

SHEEP CREEK MILL INCREASED TO 300 TONS

Preparing To Carry Shaft Down — Will Spend Large Sum For Development.

This interesting article is written by Sidney Norman, mining editor of the Vancouver Sun:

Sheep Creek Gold Mines, Sheep Creek district, operating the Queen mine and 150-ton flotation cyanide plant, placed in operation last May, is to immediately start upon an extensive campaign of deep development and increase of mill capacity to 300 tons daily.

The decision was reached a few days ago at an adjourned meeting held at the mine, with all directors present. The mine situation was carefully gone over with H. C. Doelle, M. E., mine manager, who laid out a comprehensive plan, based upon the opinion that the property's potentialities are such as to warrant the belief that it will become one of the largest gold producers of the province.

The new shaft will be sunk from No. 8 to No. 10 level, a distance of 250 feet, and new levels opened at No. 9 and No. 10, at estimated cost of $50 a foot, or $12,500.

A new hoist will be installed at collar of the shaft at cost of $15,000 and the mill improvements will be effected at estimated cost of $60,000—a total outlay of $87,500, with other work, including drifting and connections, totaling to around $100,000.

This amount has been earmarked by the directors from net earnings of the past five months, which reached a total of $145,918 up to the end of October.

It is understood that this amount will be augmented by about $20,000 net profit in November, although the month's gross will be below that of October, owing to suspension during five or six days, due to trouble with ball mill liners and severe weather in the early part of the month.

Mr. Doelle estimates that the mine work will consume about 10 weeks' time and that, if conditions at the lower levels are as anticipated, another 60,000 tons of good ore will be put in sight.

It is also believed now that what were considered two distinct veins are merely the foot and hanging wall higher grade streaks in a massive vein in places 30 feet wide, and that the material between the two streaks heretofore mined can be handled at a profit in a larger mill, which will largely cut down per-ton costs. Much of this ore runs around .2 oz., or $7 per ton.

In the east part of the mine, from which all former production has come, drift was carried 360 feet on good ore, averaging around .5 oz. gold, while on No. 8 level the shoot has so far been proved over a length of 420 feet, with good ore still in the face.

A raise from No. 8 to No. 7 has shown consistent milling values, running up as high as 2 ounces gold and with estimated average of not less than .5 oz. gold per ton, although Mr. Doelle's calculations have been made upon an average of .3 oz.

While the shaft is being deepened to No. 10 level, it will be impossible to mine ore from No. 8, and attention will therefore be turned to reserves above No. 7, where there is sufficient in sight to run the mill at capacity for at least six months.

Ore will also be drawn from No. 5 level, west of the main fault, where a raise is being put up in good ore to No. 3 level.

As pointed out before in this column, developments west of the fault have opened up what really constitutes a new mine, since no development has been done in, or ore taken from that area in the past. The ore-body has already been exposed on Nos. 3, 5, 7, and 8 levels.

The work outlined by the management constitutes the most important deep development yet undertaken in the Sheep Creek area, with the single exception of that under way at Gold Belt, on the east side of Sheep Creek, where a long crosscut is being driven by North American Mines, of Boston, to cut the vein series at depths of no less than 1800 feet from surface outcrops.

Sheep Creek Gold Mines is employing a force of 85 men, to be materially increased when the new campaign gets well under way.

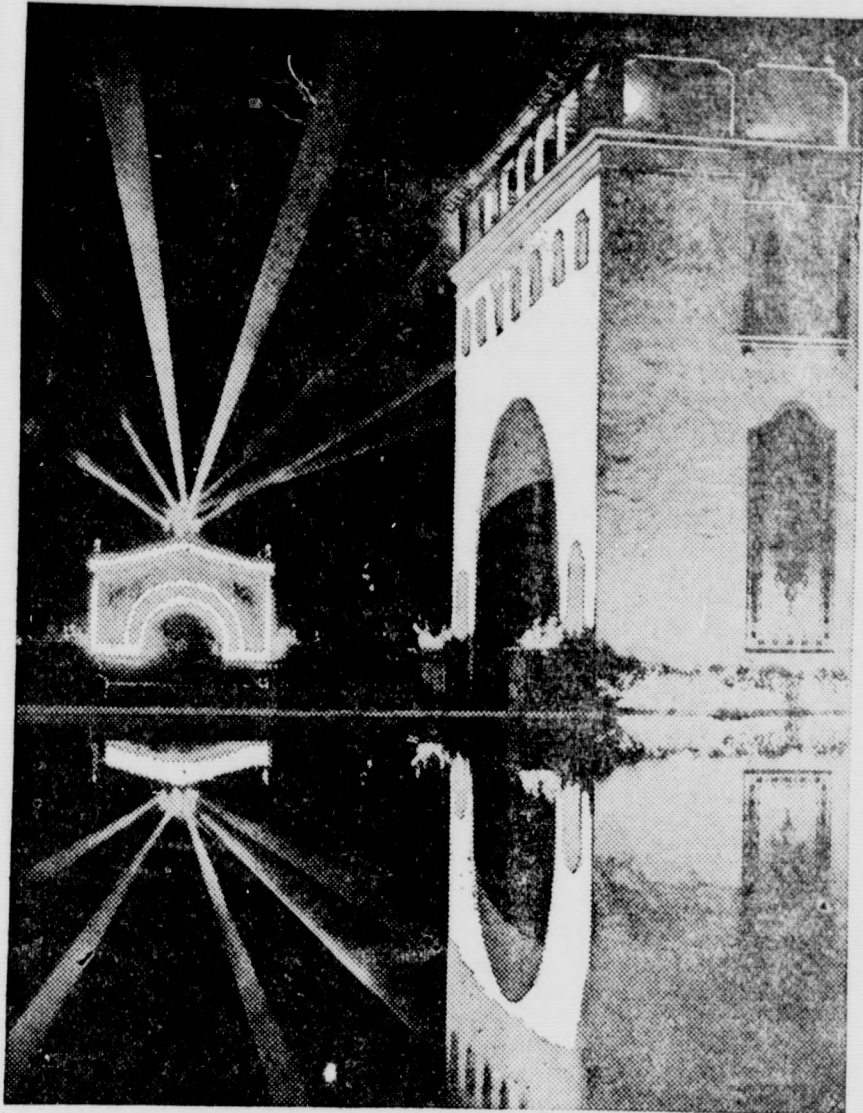

USE RIGHT OIL

Particular attention should be given to factory recommendations as to the quality of lubricating oil and frequency of oil changes.

Many new cars are being sold and some of them have composition bearings that are affected by inferior oil or oil that has become badly diluted.

Henry Ford has an extremely lively interest in antiques, and states that he has never seen an article on antiques from which he has not learned something. "The way to learn how to do a thing better is to study how it has been done before," said Ford.

GIVES RULES FOR SAVING GAS VARIOUS WAYS

Pay Strict Attention To Small Details When Driving Your Car

To aid motorists in gaining greater gasoline mileage, the manager of Mission Auto Co., Chrysler-Plymouth dealer here, yesterday outlined five rules to reduce fuel consumption. They are:

1—Don't race away from the intersection when the traffic signal says "Go." Attempting to beat the other fellow away from an intersection results in excessive gas consumption many times a day.

2—Don't choke your motor after it has "warmed up." Many motorists develop the habit of using the choke when it is not necessary. Naturally, this draws a richer gas mixture into the carburetor than is essential.

3—Don't remain in second gear too long when accelerating. Do not speed up to 25 or 35 miles an hour in intermediate gear. By so doing, you use approximately the same amount of gas as you would use at 50 or 60 miles an hour in high gear.

4—Do not allow your motor to idle for long intervals of time. Turn off the ignition when stopped for more than a minute.

5—Do not step on the accelerator when the motor is idling to determine if your engine is "turning over." Have your carburetor's idling speed correctly adjusted so that your motor idles properly.

According to the above authority, the motorists who observe these rules consistently will effect substantial savings in gasoline consumption.

You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your

Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Mr. Ramill had reacted in his own way. His temporary friendliness had disappeared. He was again the bland, adroit investor in mines who so generously presented worthy prospectors with a thousand, and in return took over claims worth many thousands. Huxby of course had been a hopeless case. But Garth had fancied there were possibilities in the older pirate. Lillith Ramill, however, was the real disappointment. Though she had done nothing, so far as Garth could tell, to disprove her declared hatred of him, she had seemed more and more to show a spirit of fair play. It had led him into thinking she possessed a true spirit of sportsmanship.

Yet now the girl avoided looking at him. Occasionally she gazed rather hard at her fiancé and murmured about the hotel at Edmonton. But for the most part she sat in moody silence. The grease that dulled the brilliant blue diamond of her engagement ring seemed to annoy her. She rubbed at it with a bit of dry moss, between bites at her meat.

By the time Garth finished his own half-spoiled meat, he managed also to swallow his bitterness. After all, what else could he have expected? The girl was the daughter of Burton Ramill—the selfish spoiled daughter of an unscrupulous business sharper.

He broke in upon her rubbing of the begrimed diamond: "May I ask you for the salt and tea bags, Miss Ramill? They're as good as empty, I see. But I can refill them for my return to the valley."

She stared at him, wide-eyed. "Valley! You—you're going back there?"

"To be sure. Why not? You can't suppose I'll abandon all that million in my platinum placer."

Huxby's face had gone blank. His agate eyes stared with all their cold rancor. But Mr. Ramill chuckled. "Of course, my dear—the placer. He will be going back to his placer next spring."

The girl did not turn her astonished gaze away from Garth. "Dad does not understand. I do. You mean now! You planned it from the first. All that caribou meat and the—"

"Good guess," he broke in. "It has taken a bit longer than I expected to get you out. But in my light birch bark, I fancy I can make the head of canoe water before the freeze-up. After that, frost and snow will make no difference. I'll have a pair of webs—snowshoes."

The millionaire spoke in place of his wild-eyed daughter: "But, man, the cold?"

Garth smiled. "Have you forgotten I told you that I wintered with the Eskimos at Coronation Gulf?"

"They have dog teams."

"Some of those teams were reared from wolf pups. I might experiment. There are several wolf families in the valley."

"You're stark mad! If you think you can—"

Mr. Ramill paused. He listened to what Huxby was muttering in his ear. His frown smoothed out, and he again favored Garth with the smile that did not go up as high as his shrewd eyes.

"Oh, well, my boy, if you're bound to risk your life in foolhardy adventuring, that's of course none of our business."

"Quite so," Garth agreed. "If our sixty-four deal had not fallen through, it would have been your business to do the legal assessment work on the claim. But as things stand, I may as well put in the winter doing the work myself. The metal I sled out with my wolf team should pay enough to buy me a fair-sized freight plane."

The millionaire beamed. "Yes—ah—true!"

Garth smiled back at him. "By the way, I meant to let you discover for yourselves at Fort Smith the happy surprise I've had all along for you. But since you're so pleased already over my prospects, I'll let you into the secret right now."

"Secret—at Fort Smith?"

"Yes. I forwarded my papers by the southbound Bellanca before I had the pleasure of meeting you and Miss Ramill. My claim has been on record for the past four weeks or so."

Huxby glared with a sudden change from gloating to cold rage: "You lie! You were going out in your canoe."

He was on his feet almost as soon as Garth. His fists swung in blows driven by all the force of his furious anger. Garth side-stepped both, and clipped in a hook to the jaw. Huxby dropped as if hit by a sledge. Yet it was not a complete knockout. After three of four seconds, he sat up, blinking like a dazed owl, and rubbing the flattened wad of beard on his jaw.

Garth had stepped back. He said: "Apologize, or get up and take what is coming to you."

Huxby stopped blinking. The daze cleared from his eyes. They took on their usual calculating look. He felt again at his sore jaw, and replied with cold deliberation: "I withdraw the term."

Arrogant as was the tone, the words were an unqualified apology. Garth turned to Lillith, who stood gazing at him with a peculiar hard glow in her blue eyes. He spoke as if nothing had happened:

"Some of the ashes are now cool enough for you to use, Miss Ramill. Rub them on as a mud paste till the potash cuts the grease, then scour with sand, and rinse. Better take your ashes in the blanket, and use it for protection while you do your laundering. The skeets and bulldog flies are swarming. You'll find a bit of sand beach just under that clump of spruce."

Without a word of thanks, she dragged the blanket to the edge of the nearest outburst fire and began brushing the fluffy gray wood ashes upon it with a spruce spray. Her father had been gazing thoughtfully at Garth. He took up his empty foxskin bag.

"Come on, Vivian. This is washday. Take Lillith's bag and get your potash."

The wolfskin knapsack, with its platinum alloy treasure, had been left attached to the mooring line of the canoe. There was no bag for Garth. He made one by opening the front of his buckskin shirt and hand-ladling wood ashes inside.

Lillith went over beyond the spruce thicket with her blanket-bagged ashes. Garth led Mr. Ramill and Huxby to the strip of sand below the beached canoe. There he showed them how to cheat the buzzing insect pests. Instead of stripping for his laundry work, he muddled his ashes and plastered the paste all over his body and on the inside and outside of his clothes.

He rubbed in the mess and gave the weak solution of potash lye time to act. After that came the rinsing. He waded out and sat down in the water up to his neck. Thus protected from the swarms of stingers, he stripped off one garment at a time, washed it clean of ashes, and tossed it upon the edge of the beach. Before coming out, he took a luxurious swim in the clear river water.

First Ramill and then Huxby rather gingerly copied Garth's method. Like him, both wound up with a swim. Neither, however, ventured far out into the vast slow flood of the Mackenzie.

With the landing came the comedy. The others ended their bathing before Garth. He tread water to watch them. Both had wrung out their clothes and hung them well up the beach. The moment they splattered ashore, the waiting swarms of blood-suckers buzzed to the feast.

Huxby cursed, snatched up his half-dry rags, and dashed back in, to dress under water. Mr. Ramill, however, had no desire to put on wet clothes. He beat at the zizzing pests with his tattered union suit. It enabled him to get into the leather trousers and coat without being stung more than half a hundred times.

Garth's mirth was mixed with admiration for the mine investor's nerve. Along with this he felt a glow of satisfaction over the results of what his rigorous training had done for the once-soft millionaire. Though still heavy-set, the portly gentleman had become something of an athlete in appearance. His flabby muscles had been hardened; his loose jowls were now firm. His paunch had disappeared. He was lean about the waist and hips, and full-chested.

"My word, sir," Garth sang out, "you look fit for the football squad. That should be worth more to you than a dozen platinum claims. At least, you might toss me my buckskins."

Mellowed by the bath and swim to a temporary return of friendliness, the millionaire chuckled and came down the beach to fling the sodden garments out to their owner. His loitering afterwards may have been for Huxby. Yet he went back to the dead fires with Garth, when the engineer muttered something about having dropped his penknife.

As the two disappeared over the top of the ice-gouged bank, Huxby sprang to open the wolfskin knapsack. From it he snatched out a piece of rancid bear-cub fat, a clip of pistol cartridges, and his "lost" automatic.

With swift, purposeful movements, he rubbed the fat on the rusty pistol and began working the mechanism. It jammed repeatedly. But as the sun-melted fat soaked the rust, the action became normal.

Still quick yet unhurried, he loaded the clip into the hollow butt and slid back the outer barrel to throw a cartridge into the breech.

As was of course to be expected Lillith Ramill had not returned from her own dip and wood-ashes laundering. Garth sat down beside the tin cup and little aluminum pot to mend a rip in the left leg of his buckskin trousers.

Still in a friendly mood, but with shrewd calculation in his eyes, Mr. Ramill stretched out on his back in the long grass beside Garth.

"Well, young man, it appears that the game is played out. The joke on us is that you had the cards stacked. A cold deck, and no stakes up."

Garth differed: "Why not put it according to the facts, sir? I offered a square deal—a straight business proposition. The placer was in on that. Had I not sent out my papers for record, I would have had no legal claim to offer in my bargaining."

"Why—er— But when I refused your terms, and you refused mine, you said you preferred to play out the game."

"My game," Garth qualified; "not yours. It was you and Huxby who thought you had the cards stacked to win. You fancied it a sure-thing gamble."

"But—your game? You had the placer clinched. Why not have said so at once, or at least there at the lake when you turned the tables on us? I might have accepted your terms. At least we could have flown out together, instead of going through all these weeks of privation and hardship."

The last words won an amused glance from Garth.

"Hardship—privation? You must know several fellow millionaires who call it prime sport to spend a month in the bush."

"Sport?"

"Oh, well, if you can't see that side of it, just recall yourself as you were when I had to hoist you out of the monoplane cabin."

"That held the millionaire for a long moment. Then—"

"Admitting how much I've benefited from your health cure, Doctor Garth, your methods have done my future son-in-law no good. As for my daughter, to drag a delicately nurtured lady into the dirt and privations and dangers of your raw wilds—"

"Delicate!" Garth cut in. "Do you know of anyone more hard? The point in her case is that she was only a brittle, harsh alloy. Now she's at least partly tempered into true steel. I had hopes of still better results from the both of you. But hate and treachery blacken the blood."

At the bitter statement, the millionaire flushed with anger. He started to turn over on his side to frown at Garth. The movement drew Garth's glance. Above a clump of wild currants, less than ten paces distant, he glimpsed the top of Huxby's hat and the outthrust muzzle of the automatic.

As Garth ducked forward, the pistol blared. Garth pitched down on his face. At the same instant, startled by the shot, Mr. Ramill jerked up on his elbow. The long grass had hidden him. Huxby could not have known that his partner was lying so close beside Garth.

In the excitement of the moment, he must have thought he had missed his kill and that Garth was bounding up again. He instantly pulled the trigger a second time. Knocked over by the shock of the bullet, the millionaire sprawled across the flaccid body of Garth.

Even as the roar of the second shot dinned in his ears, the killer saw what he had done. The pistol dropped from his paralyzed hand. He stiffened erect on his knees to glare at that upmost body. It did not move.

Before he could recover his wits, Lillith burst screaming from the spruce thicket. Half clad, wet hair flying, she dashed forward to fling herself down on her bare knees beside her father. Under the partly washed off coat of mosquito dope, his face was the same sallow gray as Garth's.

She looked up, her eyes black with horror. Huxby had risen to his feet. He was advancing, once more cool. She flung out a forbidding hand.

"Stop! Keep away! You—murderer!"

His lips tightened. "You're mad, darling—clear off your head. I shot to save your father, not at him. No, listen—you must listen to me! The d-d roughneck attacked your father—with the knife—had him down. At my first shot he dodged. I thought I missed. Your father sprang up just as I fired again. It's the truth."

"Truth!" she cried—"truth! You've killed them—both!"

A great shuddering seized her—shook her like a fit of ague. Almost swooning, she sagged forward on the body of her father.

Huxby advanced with wary quickness. But at sight of the two men he had shot, he thrust his coat-hidden pistol into its sheath. All the back of Garth's sideward turned head was a crimson blotch. What need of wasting powder on a man shot through the head?

Mr. Ramill's wound gave him no less satisfaction, though for an exactly opposite reason. The bullet had struck high up on the shoulder blade, between neck and arm. Huxby pulled the thickset body from under Lillith and opened the front of the leather coat. The steel-jacketed bullet had drilled clean through and come out below the collarbone.

"Look!" he shouted his relief. "Your father—he's not killed, only knocked out. The wound's not serious, so high up through the chest. Same way one of my classmates was shot by a hold-up. Take hold. We'll get him into the canoe and make a quick run down across to the refueling post. That fellow Tobin will have a medical kit."

The pulling of her father from under her had let the girl down upon the body of Garth. Huxby's eager assurance roused her from the semi-swoon. She struggled partly up, to peer at her father, her hands braced upon Garth's lax side.

Even as she gazed, the gray of her father's face became less ghastly. But in place of the smile of relief for which Huxby looked, she sprang up to flare at him in another outburst of denunciation:

"Murderer! liar! There's his knife where I left it. He did not have it! Liar! sneak! He did not attack Dad. But you—you crawled up and shot him—without warning!"

Huxby dropped his mask.

"What of it? The d-d wood louse led first. He thought it funny to keep mum about having recorded his claim—to play your father and me all this time. Great joke that. Only it backfired on him. I'm the only pilot who can find the valley. No one can say that the claim we file on is the same as the one he recorded."

The girl quivered, tensed, and bounded sideways. The belt-ax was lying near the knife. She clutched one in each hand and straightened erect, her eyes ablaze.

"You beast!" she cried. "Go! Go, or I'll kill you!"

Arkansas' Pronunciation

Decided by Legislature

From 1844 to 1848, Arkansas was represented in the United States senate by Chester Ashley, born in New England, and Ambrose H. Sevier, born in Tennessee. Ashley pronounced the name as spelled, while Sevier always said Arkansasaw. Sevier contended that the French got the name from the Indians, and spelled the last syllable "sas" because that was pronounced "saw" in the French language. The Vice President in recognizing Senator Ashley always said "the senator from Arkansas," while in recognizing Senator Sevier he said "the senator from Arkansasaw." The people were divided on the subject.

In 1881 the Arkansas legislature caused the appointment of a commission of learned men to investigate the subject, and on the strength of its report passed the following resolution:

"The only true pronunciation of the name of the state, in the opinion of this body (the legislature), is that received by the French from the Indians, and committed to writing in the French word representing the sound, and that it shall be pronounced in three syllables, with the final "s" silent and the "a" in each syllable with the Italian sound and the accent on the first and last syllables, being the pronunciation formerly universally and now still most commonly used, and that the pronunciation with the accent on the second syllable with the sound of "a" as in man and the sounding of the terminal "s" is an innovation to be discouraged." The resolution was passed in March, 1881. The name of the river, however, is pronounced Arkansas by many citizens of the state who are careful to call their state Arkansasaw.

Wrens in Our Garden

The house wren is one of the most economical birds we have, a friend to be cherished in any orchard or garden. He feeds entirely upon insects and if ever one did any harm it must have been a mistake. They rear two or three broods of four or five babies each in a season. Daddy and Mother Wren both work, taking turns sitting on the eggs or feeding the young. For a few days after a brood has hatched the father is so proud and happy that his song tumbles all over itself. Then he cools down as his duties become more arduous.

Future Written on Stars

The Chaldean sages studied the heavens to wrest from them the secret of the influence of the heavenly bodies on human affairs. They fancied that the future was written on the stars, and that it was possible for the human mind to decipher the scroll of the heavens. From that study of the movements of the heavenly bodies developed the science of astronomy; the astrologer of one age was the astronomer of the next.

MINING NOTES OF VARIOUS SECTIONS

The many friends of Jack Ham-mell, dynamic operator of Toronto, who is still trying to "crack open" the northern part of British Columbia in a placer-mining way, have watched with pleasure the record of Pickle Crow Gold Mines, Patricia district, northern Ontario, his latest "baby."

Production was started with 150-ton mill late in April, and to the end of October had produced $631,000. Shaft has reached depth of 775 feet and three new levels are being opened at the 500, 650 and 775.

Owing to continued low values encountered in recent mills runs, directors of Ymir Consolidated Gold Mines, Ymir camp, have thought it advisable to close down the plant until an independent and complete examination can be made.

Premier Gold Mining Company, the big Portland Canal dividend-payer, has declared regular quarterly three cent dividend, and extra of one cent, payable on January 15 to shareholders of record December 16.

Total paid in 1935 was twelve cents, or $600,000 to 5,000,000 shares, bringing grand total to $18,458,075 at year end, and $18,658,075 with January, 1936, payment included.

We are advised by Al J. Morrison, mayor of Greenwood, manager of Beaverdell Wellington Syndicate, operating the Wellington mine, Beaverdell, that the last nine carloads shipped to Trail have averaged over 300 ounces silver per ton.

If silver averages around 60 cents, it looks as if the 100 per cent dividend upon 36,000 shares paid in the past few months might be doubled in 1936.

The low level crosscut of Federal Gold Mines, north Bridge River area, is now about 1160 feet and is projected to tap the vein at depth of 950 feet vertically, or approximately 1500 feet on the dip.

Diamond drilling contract has been let to Boyles Brothers, and work was started this week to definitely locate the three shears shown on surface by holes put out from near the face of the lower crosscut.

Shipments of ore for testing purposes have been made to the Dominion Government, Ottawa and McGill University, Montreal, in preparation for decision as to mill flow sheet if development now under way warrants the outlay. This should be largely decided by results of diamond drilling.

Total supply of refined lead in the United States at the end of October, 1935, was 225,309 tons, with production during the same period at 573,405 tons, and domestic shipments estimated at 348,088 tons.

Stocks at the end of 1934 were 235,457 tons, so there has been a reduction of around 10,000 tons since that time, with slightly better demand indicated during the first ten months of the year.

Present stocks are, however, still heavy, comparisons being as follows: 1933, 205,061 tons; 1932, 176,157; 1931, 151,653, and 1930, 103,247 tons.

Windpass Gold Mines, operating near Chua Chua, 50 miles north of Kamloops, is milling about 55 tons daily, with mill heads running between .75 and 1.25 oz. gold per ton, according to W. R. Wilson, president of the company.

R. J. Bonnemort, engineer in charge for International Gold Mines, Mt. Baker Area, Whatcom County, Washington, reports disclosure of five feet of $40 ore over lengths of 80 feet on the 800-foot level, according to progress report just issued by the company.

International line on the Nelson-Spo-kane highway, on the Pend Oreille River, has been placed in commission and reports say it is performing well up to expectations. Two products will be made—lead and zinc concentrate.

Hedley Amalgamated Gold Mines, Hedley district, has announced its intention to construct flotation-cyanide mill of 150 tons capacity, with W. J. Asselstine in charge of design and construction. Preliminary tests indicate concentration ratio of 45 tons to one and up to 98 per cent recovery of values.

OLD TIME RESIDENT PASSES

Thomas J. Sheedy, for a long time residing on Hanover street in Daly City, passed away at Fort Miley Veterans Hospital, Thursday morning of this week. The cause of his demise was from a blood clot on the brain.

Deceased is survived by his wife and two children, one a mere infant four months old.

By a new penal code Germany may give persons condemned to death the privilege of committing suicide by poison or pistol. The idea, of course, is not new, being a revival of an ancient Greek custom which was perhaps very old when his misguided countrymen forced Socrates to drink the hemlock in 399 B. C.

TWELVE POINT BEACH PROGRAM OF CIVIC UNION

Planning Commission Tells Of Activities In Conserving Shore Lands

ready been publicized through the local county press. A year ago such an appropriation was made, but later cancelled. It is believed that this joint request now being made by all counties concerned will now be granted and such survey made, dealing primarily with the matter of checking beach erosion. Beach pollution by oil from ships and oil well operations and other matters of beach recreational development will also be considered.

Already the California Beaches Association has set up the following Twelve-Point Objective for initial activities of its several units, not the least important of which it is hoped will become the San Mateo County unit:

1—In, general, conservation of the ocean beaches of this state.

2—Promotion of legislation for beach improvement and protection.

3—Securing of federal appropriation of $100,000 for surveys preliminary to a scientific attack on the problem of beach erosion.

4—Prevention of oil well drilling on tidelands.

5—Determination of what constitutes tidelands by obtaining authoritative interpretation of phrase, "ordinary high water mark."

6—Halting contamination of beaches and shore waters through (a) rigid enforcement of ship dumping laws (b) better sewage disposal; (c) control of surface drainage.

7—Securing improved access to beaches.

8—Creation of more State beach parks.

9—Development of beaches as tourist attractions.

10—Preservation of natural beauty of the ocean shores.

11—Conservation of shell fish native to California shore waters.

12—While primarily interested in the beaches, this organization also will interest itself in all relevant matters pertaining to good government and tax reduction.

Of a total of more than 1000 miles of California beach frontage, only about 75 miles of satisfactory beach lands is said to be available for public uses, according to a Common-

AMERICA HAS ANOTHER BRAND NEW CITIZEN

What a privilege to be an American citizen, to be a voter. It is the number of votes cast on either side of a question that really decides the issue. A fine thing it is to think right on any subject, but we need to go farther than that and let our good thoughts do their bit in making this city, county, state and country, better because of our yes or no on the ballot.

There are those about us who are citizens at heart, but on account of being foreign born are unable to take part in governmental affairs. All that is needed is perseverance; the road is open to citizenship and right here in Daly City at 1006 Hanover street, the lower floor of the Presbyterian Church, Americanization and English classes are conducted there. The course offered prepares the student so that he or she can pass the required examinations and qualify for citizenship. The instruction is absolutely free. Daytime classes are open from 12:30 to 3:30 p. m., Mondays and Thursdays. Evening classes, 6:30 to 9:30 on the same days. If you can't attend all of the sessions, come as often as possible. The teacher of this school gives you so much careful, individual help you just couldn't fail.

Mrs. Mary Parodi, 350 Evergreen street, recently passed the required examinations at this school. She is now an American citizen and those of us who know her feel sure she will be loyal and true. She will be able to vote at the August primaries.

Should you wish to know more about this school, call at 1006 Hanover street during the hours stated, afternoon or evening, and the instructor will be pleased to enlighten you. We are never too old to learn. All ages are welcome.

wealth Club (San Francisco) 1933 survey. This has been considerably augmented through the activities of San Mateos beach land acquisition programs during the past year. Greatest of the state's recreational assets are its ocean beaches, and particularly so are those of this county, being unsurpassed by any other coast area.
